Address from Principal

Greeting from the Shandong Province of China!

This brochure will give you more information about the physical and cultural facts about the cities and country in which our Alberta Accredited International School Programs operate. We are very happy to be associated with the curriculum and standards of education that all Alberta students receive and we believe that we are creating a very healthy and productive learning environment for our students Shandong Province (Dongying, Qingdao, and Jinan.)

Our accreditation to Alberta Education requires us to employ teachers with a very high degree of training and effectiveness. Therefore, we are searching for teachers who want to experience and participate in the following:

1. Work in a new culture and get to experience first-hand one of the oldest cultures in the world.
2. The opportunity to work with dedicated, hardworking students who have high expectations of themselves and their school. Our students are so eager to learn about Canadian culture and the English language.
3. Working collaboratively with other Alberta qualified teachers to create a warm, caring, and effective learning environment. This is ultimately an opportunity to develop your professional practice to a level you have not yet achieved.
4. Work in a country that teachers are highly respected by students and parents .

Before I came to China I had many of the same questions that get asked of me now. What is it like? What are the students like? Is it hard to learn the language? How does the working environment and compensation compare to working in Canada? For most of these questions, it is very difficult to fully answer them as it is the experience of living and working in a foreign country that can give one that knowledge. There are periods of adjustment and there are sacrifices that are made in become an international teacher. There are also benefits that cannot be gained or experienced in any other way.

At the Qilu Sino-Canadian International Schools, and the Lishan International School, we are working to build the best international schools that we can to benefit our students and to give them the skills and knowledge they will need to be successful in their ongoing studies. We strive to bring the Alberta Educational experience to our students in China, and in return we receive a portion of their culture and experience.

For the foreseeable future, there will be many opportunities for teachers to work in international schools in China. Chinese culture puts an impressive amount of value into education. Investing the in the education of children is a high priority. So if you are ready to try something new, challenging, and ultimately very rewarding, please consider coming to teach in one of our school programs. We need your expertise and we want you to grow professionally and personally from the experiences you will have here in the Shandong Province.

Sincerely,

F. Boyd Davies
Principal

Brief Introduction of China

China lies in the east of Asia. With a population of over 1.381 billion, it is the world's most populous country. The state is governed by the Communist Party of China, and its capital is Beijing. It consists of 34 provinces, autonomous regions, and municipalities directly under the Central Government. China is a great power and a major regional power within Asia, and has been characterized as a potential superpower.
China is the world's second largest state by land area, covering approximately 9.6 million square kilometres, China's landscape is vast and diverse, ranging from forest steppes and the Gobi and TaklaMakan Deserts in the arid north to subtropical forests in the wetter south. The Himalaya, Karakoram, Pamir and Tian Shan mountain ranges separate China from much of South and Central Asia.

Since 1978, China has become one of the world's fastest-growing major economies. As of 2016, it is the world's second-largest economy by nominal GDP and largest by purchasing power parity (PPP). China is also the world's largest exporter and second-largest importer of goods. China is also a member of numerous formal and informal multilateral organizations, including the WTO, APEC, BRICS, the Shanghai Cooperation Organization (SCO), the BCIM and the G-20.

Chinese
Festivals

Spring Festival

"Spring Festival" is an important Chinese festival celebrated at the turn of the traditiona Chinese calendar. Celebrations traditionally run from the evening preceding the first day, to the Lantern Festival on the 15th day of the first calendar month. The first day of the New Year falls on the new moon between 21 January and 20 February.

The New Year festival is centuries old and gains significance because of several myths and customs. Traditionally, the festival was a time to honor deities as well as ancestors.Because legend has it that the beast is afraid of red, fire and sound, so people will have couplets, firecrackers, gongs and drums and other customs. Regional customs and traditions concerning the celebration of the Chinese New Year vary widely. The evening preceding Chinese New Year's Day is an occasion for Chinese families to gather for the annual reunion dinner. It is also a tradition for every family to thoroughly cleanse the house, in order to sweep away any ill-fortune and to make way for good incoming luck. Windows and doors will be decorated with red color paper-cuts and couplets with popular themes of "good fortune" or "happiness", "wealth", and "longevity". Other activities include lighting firecrackers and giving money in red paper envelopes.

Traditional Chinese Festivals

Dragon Boat Festival

The Dragon Boat Festival, is celebrated on the fifth day of the fifth month according to the Chinese calendar. The festival has been marked by eating zongzi (glutinous rice wrapped to form a pyramid using bamboo or reed leaves) and racing dragon boats for thousands of years.

The festival is best known for its dragon-boat races, especially in the southern provinces where there are many rivers and lakes. This regatta commemorates the death of QuYuan,an honest minister who is said to have committed suicide by drowning himself in a river. He was upright, loyal and highly esteemed for his wise.

The people of Chu who mourned the death of Qu threw rice into the river to feed his ghost every year on the fifth day of the fifth month.

During the Dragon Boat Festival, a rice pudding called Zongzi is eaten to symbolize the rice offerings to Qu. Ingredients such as beans,lotusseeds,chestnuts, pork fat and the golden yolk of a salted duck egg are often added to the glutinous rice. The pudding is then wrapped with bamboo leaves, bound with a kind of raffia and boiled in salt water for hours.

Spring Festival Holiday

Being one of the traditional festivals, Spring Festival is the time for the whole families to reunite together, which is similar with Christmas Day to the westerners.
Originating during the Shang Dynasty (17th - 11th century BC), the festival used to be observed to fight against the monster "Nian" who liked to eat children and livestock. The monster was afraid of red color and loud sound. Therefore, people decorated their houses in red and set off firecrackers to expel it.

Based on the lunar calendar, the festival has no exact date and it changes each year, but it mostly falls on a day from January 21st to February 20th in Gregorian calendar. The lunar calendar also defines the 12-year repeating cycle of Chinese zodiac, and each year is named after an animal.

The festival lasts for 15 days from Chinese New Year Eve to Lantern Festival on the 15th day of the Lunar New Year.
Most employees in China have at least seven days off work, including three days' legal holiday, while students take one month absence from school. The celebration lasts for 15 days from the 1st to 15th day of the first lunar month, and in folklore it starts even earlier, from the 23rd day of the twelfth lunar month.
Before the Spring Festival, every family will have a thorough house cleanup and go for festival items shopping. The red spring couplets, and red animal paper cut are pasted for decoration. Also, new clothes must be bought, especially for children. At the reunion dinner on Lunar New Year's Eve, people usually will eat dumplings. Red Envelopes are given to kids and elders to share the blessing.

New Year Festival

New Year's Day celebrations vary widely across different cultures. But in china, many people mark New Year's Day as the first day to start a New Year's resolution for the year. New Year's Day parades are held in some places and some of these parades are televised. The start of New Year's Day is usually marked by fireworks and gala as the clock strikes midnight between New Year's Eve and New Year's Day.
Many people who were up on New Year's Eve to welcome the New Year and have a day off work on New Year's Day have the chance to sleep in and visit friends or relatives, going to the movies, staying in, or watching or playing sport. Feasting on traditional New Year's food is also a widespread practice.

Main Holidays in China

Labor Day

Labor Day, is a public holiday in many countries worldwide. In china, it occurs around May 1. It is associated the start of spring as well as the celebration of workers. China celebrates International Labor Day, unlike many of China's holidays, this one is not tied to the Chinese lunar calendar. It falls every year on May 1.
Chinese workers and students get a few days off for the May 1 holiday period. Depending on when May 1 falls, people might get an "extension". So, for example, if May 1 is a Saturday, the public will get an extension and have Monday, May 3 off.

China National Day

China National Day, the holiday celebrates the founding of the People's Republic of China by the Communist party. In past times, the day was marked by large political gatherings and speeches, military parades, state banquets and the like. The last large military display took place for the sixtieth anniversary of the PRC founding in 2009 but parades take place in Beijing, Shanghai and the like every year.
Since 2000, as China's economy developed, the government has granted workers and students a seven-day holiday on and around October 1st. Typically a period of seven days are "holidays" with a weekend day or two being substituted for work days to give a seven-day holiday.

Dumplings

Dumplings are one of the Chinese popular traditional dishes.There are three steps involved in making dumplings: 1) make dumpling wrappers out of dumpling flour; 2) prepare the dumpling stuffing; 3) make dumplings and boil them. With thin and elastic dough skin, fresh and tender stuffing, delicious taste, and unique shapes, dumplings are worth eating hundreds of times. There's an old saying that claims, "Nothing could be more delicious than dumplings". During the Spring Festival and other holidays, or when treating relatives and friends, Chinese people like to follow the auspicious custom of eating dumplings. To Chinese people who show high reverence for family love, having dumplings at the moment the old year is replaced by the new is an essential part of bidding farewell to the old and ushering in the new year.

Chinese Kung Fu

Chinese kung fu, or Chinese martial arts, carries traditional Chinese culture in abundance. It is a traditional Chinese sport which applies the art of attack and defence in combat and the motions engaged with a series of skill and tricks. Chinese kung fu has a long history, with multi-various sects and many different boxing styles, and emphasizes coupling hardness with softness and internal and external training. It contains the ancient great thinkers' pondering of life and the universe.

Chinese Culture &Fun

Chinese Beijing Opera

Chinese opera is a popular form of drama and musical theatre in China with roots going back to the early periods in China. It is a composite performance art that is an amalgamation of various art forms that existed in ancient China, and evolved gradually over more than a thousand years, reaching its mature form in the 13th century during the Song Dynasty. Early forms of Chinese drama are simple, but over time they incorporated various art forms, such as music, song and dance, martial arts, acrobatics, as well as literary art forms to become Chinese opera.

There are numerous regional branches of Chinese opera, including the Beijing opera, Shaoxing opera, Cantonese opera and Kunqu and Lvju.

Miaohui (Temple Fair)

Miaohui, literally temple gatherings or translated as temple fairs are Chinese religious gatherings held by folk temples for the worship of the Chinese gods and immortals. Large-scale miaohui are usually held around the time of the Chinese New Year, or in specific temples at the birthday of the god enshrined in the temple itself. Activities usually include rituals celebrated in the temple, opera on a stage facing the temple, processions of the gods' images on carts throughout villages and cities, performance of musical and ritual troupes, blessing of offerings brought to the temple by families, and various economic activities.

Culture and Fun

Lion Dance

Lion dance is a form of traditional dance in Chinese culture and other Asian countries in which performers mimic a lion's movements in a lion costume. The lion dance is usually performed during the Chinese New Year and other Chinese traditional, cultural and religious festivals, such as Lantern Festival. It may also be performed at important occasions such as business opening events, special celebrations or wedding ceremonies, or may be used to honor special guests by the Chinese communities.

Paper Cutting

Paper-cutting is becoming one of the most important types of Chinese folk art and spreading to other parts of the world, with different regions adopting their own cultural styles. Because the cut-outs are often used to decorate doors and windows, they are sometimes referred to as window flowers or window paper-cuts. People glued the papercuts to the exterior of windows, so the light from the inside would shine through the negative space of the cutout. Usually, the artworks are made of red paper, as red is associated with festivities and happiness in Chinese culture. Normally paper-cutting artwork is used on Spring Festival, weddings and childbirth.

Culture and Fun

New Year paintings is a unique art form in Chinese folk culture. The paintings are called "New Year paintings" because they are mostly posted during the New Year holiday for decoration and they are also a symbol of New Year's greetings. Simple lines, bright colors and happy atmosphere are combined to define New Year paintings, which capture all jubilant festive customs and life details as well as anecdotes, stories from traditional opera novels and folktales etc. The creation of New Year paintings are closely linked with people's daily lives and have strong local features.

QINGDAO

Qingdao Introduction

Location

Qingdao (Chinese: 青岛; also spelled Tsingtao) is a city in eastern Shandong Province on the east coast ofChina. It is the largest city in its province. Administered at the sub-provincial level, Qingdao has jurisdiction over six districts and four county-level cities.Lying across the Shandong Peninsula and looking out to the Yellow Sea, it borders Yantai to the northeast, Weifang to the west and Rizhao to the southwest. Qīng (青) in Chinese means "cyan" or "greenish-blue", while dǎo (岛) means "island".

Population

As of 2014 Qingdao had a population of 9,046,200 with an urban population of 6,188,100.

City rank

In 2016, Qingdao ranks 79th in the Global Financial Centres Index published by the Z/Yen Group and Qatar Financial Centre Authority, the other Chinese cities on the list being Hong Kong, Shanghai, Shenzhen, Beijing and Dalian. In 2007, Qingdao was named as among China's top ten cities by the Chinese Cities Brand Value Report, which was released at the 2007 Beijing Summit of China Cities Forum. In 2009, Qingdao was named China's most livable city by the Chinese Institute of City Competitiveness.

Climate

Qingdao has a temperate, four-season, monsoon-influencedclimate that lies in the transition between the humid subtropical and humid continental regimes, but favoring the former. Winter is cool to cold and windy, but generally dry, with a January average of −0.5 °C (31.1 °F). Summer is generally hot and humid, but very hot days are rare, with an August average of 25.3 °C (77.5 °F). Due to its proximity to the coast and being on a peninsula, it experiences a one-month delayed spring compared to most inland areas of China, and the annual diurnal temperature variation is only 6.3 °C (11.3 °F). Conversely, autumn is milder than inland areas in Shandong. The water temperature peaks at about 25 °C (77 °F) in late August, with swimming possible two months on either side. The annual mean temperature is 12.6 °C (54.7 °F).

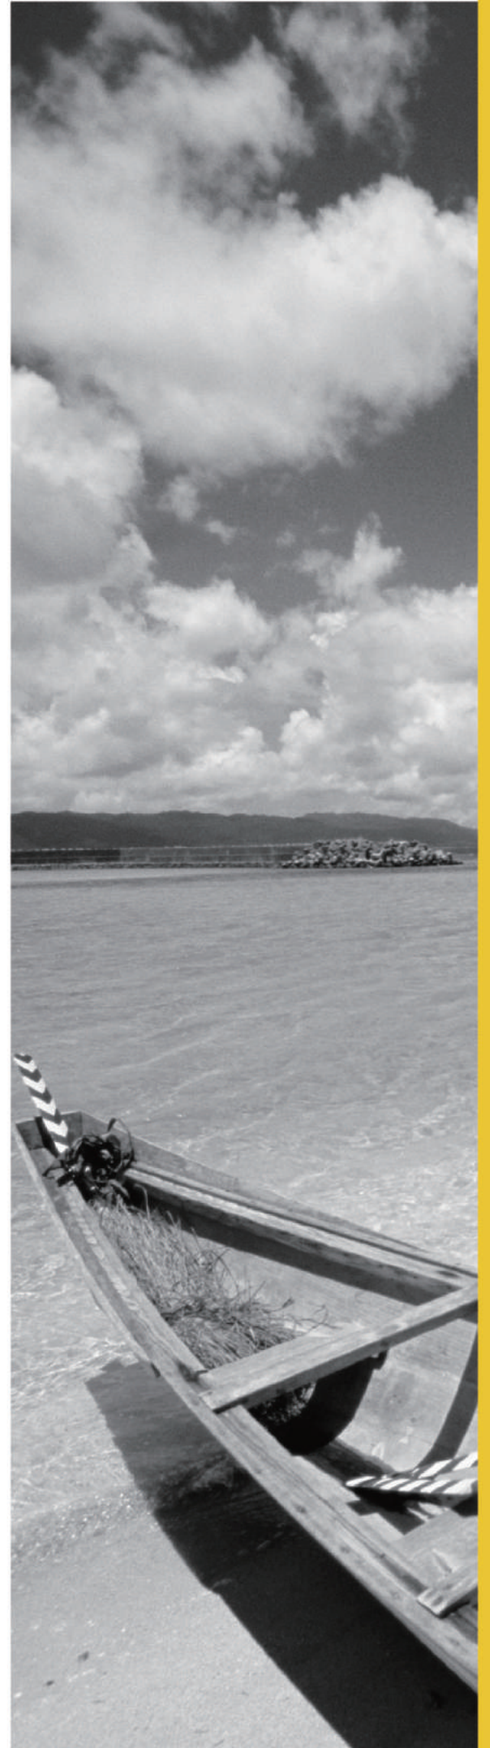
Zhan Qiao (loading pier) pier is at the tip of Qingdao Bay off Zhongshan road. This 440 meter (1,443.6ft) strip that stretches into the sea and was the first wharf in Qingdao. An octagonal pavilion called the Billowing Back and Forth Tower (huilange) if loosely translated, stands at the end of the pier. The pier itself was built in 1891 during the time when Qingdao was a German colony. The pavilion at the end was built in 1930. Zhanqiao pier is viewed in the eyes of many as the official symbol of Qingdao as it was made famous by being placed on the front of the Tsingtao Brewery beer can. Also in the vicinity of Zhan Qiao Pier is the small Qingdao Island (Xiao Qingdao), the Qingdao Navy Museum, and many neighborhoods featuring German colonial architecture. The coastline lights up at night with spotlights on nearby buildings and several neon billboards.

II.The Catholic Church

The St. Emil Church is the largest Catholic Church in Qingdao, Shandong Province. The church was located in the east side of the flourishing Zhongshan Road. Local citizens of Qingdao used to call it the Catholic Church. Established in the early 1930s, the church was the largest Gothic architecture in Qingdao as well as a masterpiece of Christian architecture. Covering an area of 2470 square meters, the church is built of yellow granites and ferroconcretes, and the facade is carved with concise and graceful patterns. Behind the entrance there is a roomy and bright hall of over 18 meters high, which can accommodate more than 1,000 people.



III.Qingdao Polar Ocean World

Qingdao Polar Ocean World located on No. 73 of Donghaieasten road, which was on the south of the famous place for vocation, Shilaoren Beach. It is a huge complex entertainment program of travelling, which consists of leisure, entertainment and shopping. When we entered the gate, it is like that we entered the polar.

IV.Six nice beaches

There are 6 nice beaches in Qingdao. Youcan enjoy sunbathing, swimming, the cool breeze, soft beach, warm sun, and clear water there.

Introduction of Campuses

DongyingShengli No. 1 Middle School and Qingdao No. 58 High School are home to Alberta curriculum based high school programs.

I.DongyingShengli No.1 Middle School

Shengli No.1 Middle School (originally named Shengli Oil Field No.1 Middle School) was established in 1965, and has both junior middle school students and senior middle school students. It is one of the first standardized middle schools in Shandong Province. Now it has two campuses, the old campus and the new campus. The old campus covers an area of 146 mu, and a building area of 52,000 square meters. The new campus covered an area of 308 mu, and a building area of 107,800 square meters. Now there are altogether 115 classes, 5,280 students, and 541 teachers. The senior middle section has 69 classes and 2950 students.

The teaching facilities of the school is quite modern and at the top level both in Shandong province and in China. We possess ten-gigabit school network. Each classroom is equipped with digital multimedia teaching system, and the following equipment have been put into actual use: the interactive classroom, the automatic recording and broadcasting room with 4 cameras , video recording system and video display system with 4K high definition, the lecture hall AV system with unattended operation. At present, the experiment and exploration room of high standard is being installed, among which the installation of the chemical experiment and exploration room has been completed and the installation of modern stadium and gymnasium, technology, art, comprehensive practice activity room and psychological consulting room, and other function room will be completed. Modern school library and the electronic reading room of high standards will be put into use. Currently in the new campus, there is one art building with music room and assembly hall, one experiment building with physics, chemistry and biology labs, 7 computer labs with more than 300 computers, one playground and one gym. There are 2 cafeterias (one for students and one for teachers) and 8 apartment buildings (6 for students and 2 for teachers).

Qilu Sino-Canadian International School (DongyingShengli No.1 Middle School) has been in existence and in continuous operation since September 2013. In the year of 2013, DongyingShengli No.1 Middle School applied to start the Alberta Accredited International School named in Qilu Sino-Canadian International School (DongyingShengli No.1 Middle School), and got the approval from the DongyingShengliEducation Management Center who held the authority over the school. Shengli No.1 started the preparation for the Qilu Sino-Canadian International School, including inner decoration of the international buildings, training the teachers and propagandizing. The international school recruited the first group of grade 10 students with the number of 23 in Sep. 2014. Therefore, the Qilu Sino-Canadian International School (DongyingShengli No.1 Middle School) got the official approval from the local government in 2013 and started the enrollment of students in 2014.

▲ School Gate

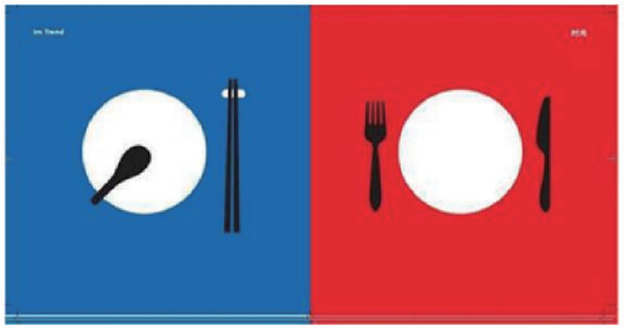
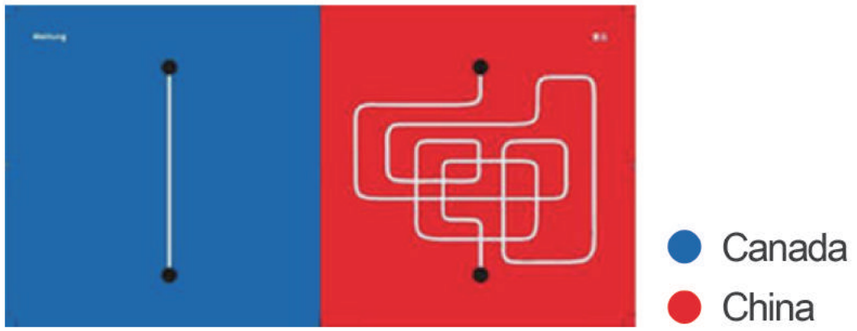
Living in China

Different culture between Canada and China

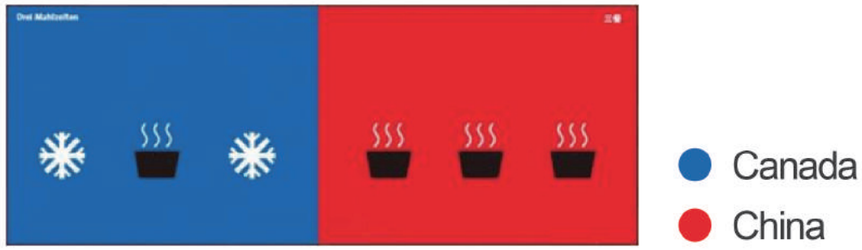
The Chinese way of eating with chopsticks is unique in the world. The recorded history of chopsticks started more than thousands of years ago. Chopsticks were taken as an auspicious mascot by ordinary people in ancient China. For example, the partial tone of chopsticks is often used by people as a metaphor at weddings, to indicate a blessing for the couple to have a baby soon. A pair of chopsticks also implies the meaning of “Harmony is what matters”. Chopsticks are highly praised by Westerners as a hallmark of ancient oriental civilization. More and more Westerners are interested in learning to use chopsticks.



The Chinese have the thinking habit from the whole to the part, from the big to the small, and reach a balance at last, while the Westerners consider the thing from the part to the whole. This is called a liner-thinking pattern.



In China, there is a tradition view that hot things keep people away from indispositions such as fever and cold, and even are able to cure. Chinese are likely to drink hot water to stimulate body’s self-healing when getting cold. Hot water is been regarded as “Chinese medicine” from foreigners’ view. In a word, these doings have already become natural acts of Chinese people. Also some or most western food will taste awful when served hot, such as cold cut sandwich or salad.



In traditional Chinese society, members of younger generation show their respect to members of older generation by offering a cup of tea. Tea would be offered as part of a formal apology as well. For example, children who have misbehaved may serve tea to their parents as a sign of regret and submission. In daily life, Westerners like drinking beverages while we drink tea.

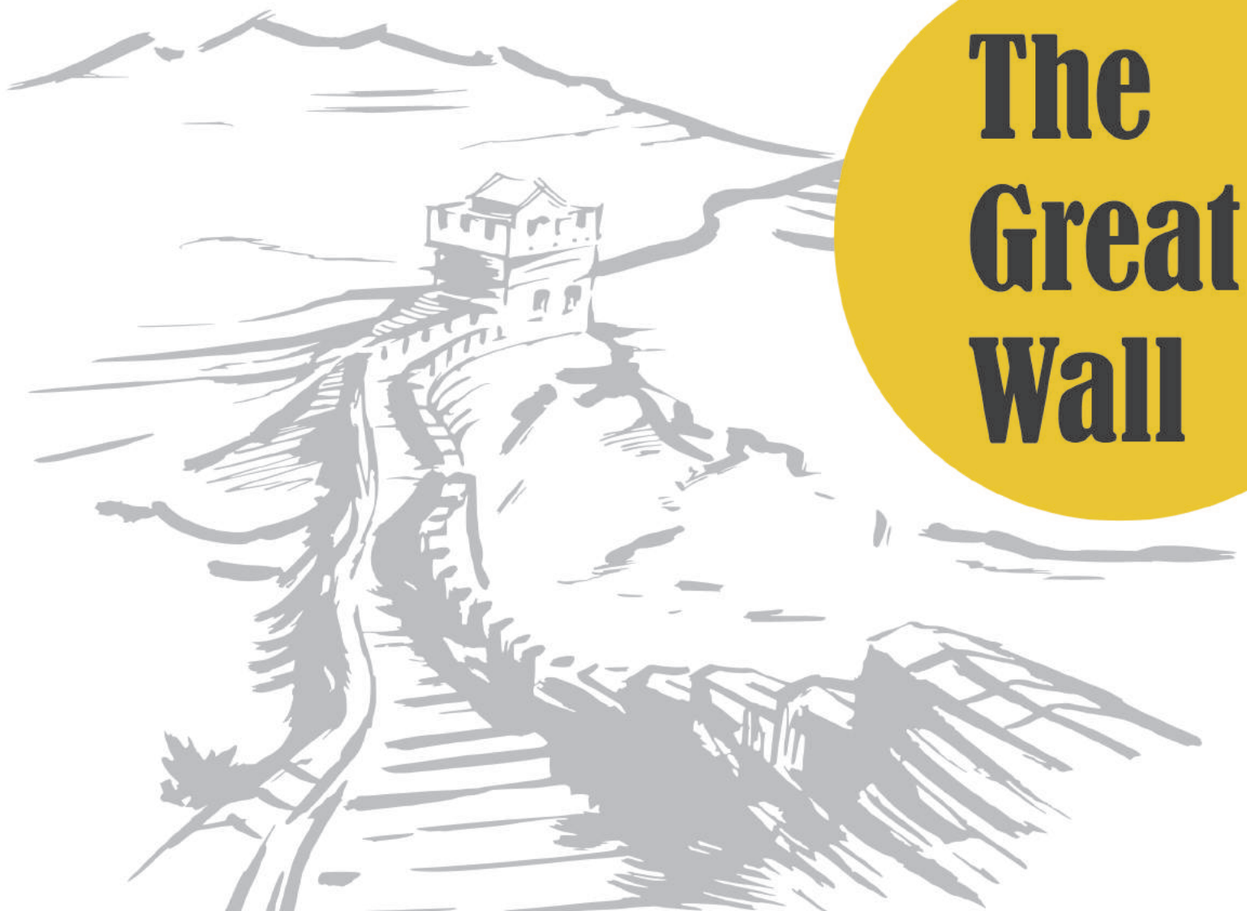
Tourism in China

The Great Wall of China is located in Beijing, the capital of China. It is a series of fortifications made of stone, brick, tamped earth, wood, and other materials, generally built along an east-to-west line across the historical northern borders of China to protect the Chinese states and empires against the raids and invasions of the various nomadic groups of the Eurasian Steppe. The Great Wall stretches from Dandong in the east to Lop Lake in the west, along an arc that roughly delineates the southern edge of Inner Mongolia.



The Great Wall

The Imperial Palace

The Imperial Palace is rectangular in shape, 961 meters long from north to south, 753 meters wide from east to west. It occupies an area of over 720,000 square meters and consists of 9,999 and a half rooms. The construction is the largest and most complete ancient palace complex extant in China today. Lofty and magnificent, it is acclaimed to be one of the world great palaces, together with Palace of Versailles in France.

Shanghai

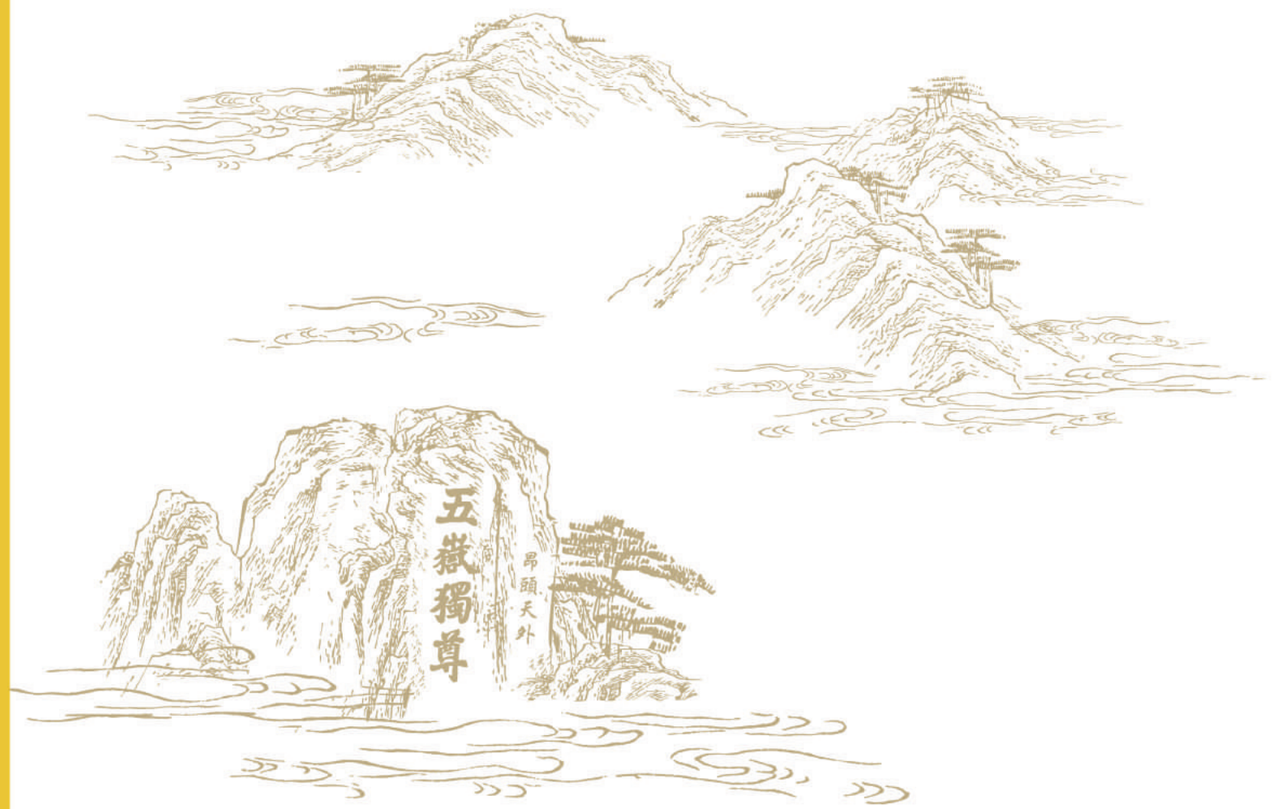
Shanghai, is a renowned international metropolis drawing more and more attention from all over the world. Situated on the estuary of Yangtze River, it serves as the most influential economic, financial, international trade, and cultural center in East China. Also it is a popular travel destination for visitors to sense the pulsating development of the country.

In addition to its modernization, the city's multicultural flair endows it with a unique glamour. Here, one finds the perfect blend of cultures, the modern and the traditional , and the western and the oriental. Western customs and Chinese traditions intertwined and formed the city's culture, making a visitor's stay memorable.

Mountain Tai

儒風

Mountain Tai is known as the eastern mountain of the Five Great Mountains of China. It is associated with sunrise, birth, and renewal, and is often regarded the foremost of the five. Mount Tai has been a place of worship for at least 3,000 years and served as one of the most important ceremonial centers of China, during large portions of this period. Visitors can reach the peak of Mount Tai via a bus which terminates at the Midway Gate to Heaven, from there a cable car connects to the summit. Covering the same distance on foot takes from two and a half to six hours. The supplies for the many vendors along the road to the summit are carried up by porters either from the Midway Gate to Heaven or all the way up from the foot of the mountain.



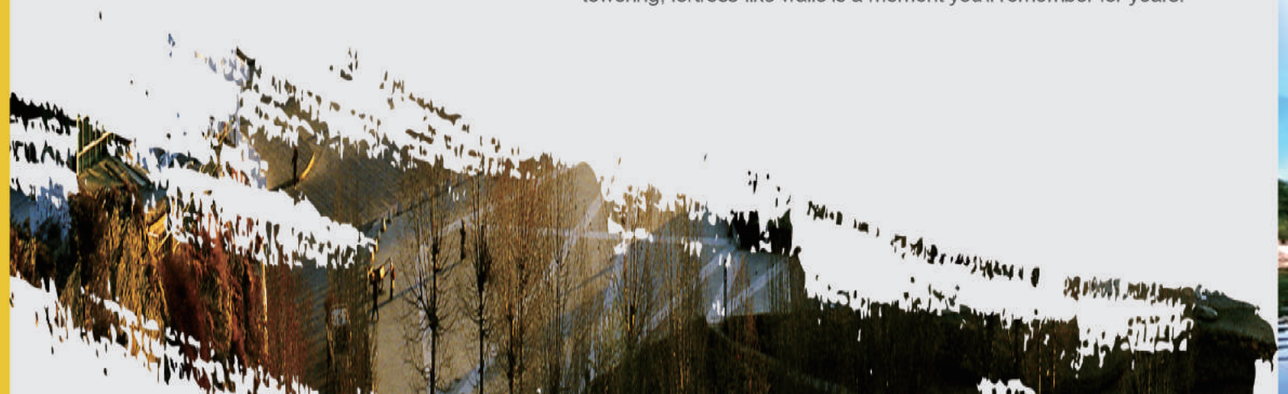
The Terracotta Army

The Terracotta Army is a collection of terracotta sculptures depicting the armies of Qin Shi Huang, the first Emperor of China. It is a form of funerary art buried with the emperor in 210–209 BCE and whose purpose was to protect the emperor in his afterlife. The terracotta figures are life-sized. They vary in height, uniform, and hairstyle in accordance with rank. The faces appear different for each individual figure, scholars however have identified 10 basic face shapes. Originally, the figures were painted with bright pigments, variously colored pink, red, green, blue, black, brown, white and lilac.
A collection of 120 objects from the mausoleum and 12 terracotta warriors were displayed at the British Museum in London as its special exhibition from 2007 to 2008.

Tibet

"For me Tibet is a uniquely spiritual place. Those moments of peace, fleeting and precious, when everything seems to be in its proper place, just seem to come more frequently here. Despite the overpowering pace of change and a sobering political situation, underpinning everything for me are the Tibetan people, whose joy and devotion remain deeply inspiring. Tibet is a place that will likely change the way you see the world and remain with you for years to come. And that for me is the definition of the very best kind of travel." ——by Bradley Mayhew

The magnificent Potala Palace, once the seat of the Tibetan government and the winter residence of the Dalai Lamas, is Lhasa's cardinal landmark. Your first sight of its towering, fortress-like walls is a moment you'll remember for years.



Gui Lin

Guilin is a prefecture-level city in the northeast of China's Guangxi Zhuang Autonomous Region. Guilin has a monsoon-influenced humid subtropical climate, with short, mild winters, and long, hot, humid summers. Winter begins dry but becomes progressively wetter and cloudier. Spring is generally overcast and often rainy, while summer continues to be rainy though is the sunniest time of year. Autumn is sunny and dry.
